Romantic Fools

Romantic Fools

By Rich Orloff, Rated "PG-13"

Co-produced by Maria and Candido Perez

A vaudeville-style comedy.

"...a cornucopia of comic one-liners, strung together by a very talented comedy writer with an ear attuned to the single scene's conversations."

— Ft. Myers Islander

The Story: Man and Woman are oddball singles who meet on a blind date and move through various stages of burgeoning relationship toward marriage. The vaudeville-style comedy plays like a series of old-fashioned oleos: Man shows up on the first blind date as a leopard-skinned Neanderthal, bringing gifts of flowers and a slab of raw meat, expecting a quick conquest. He later becomes the foil for Woman's tempestuous mood swings and morphs into a Groucho-like marriage broker. Woman alternates as his dream girl and his nightmare, and at one point his competition in a game of arm wrestling with the relationship in the balance.

Rich Orloff, who has written three other plays presented at Shadowland, brings us a look at the War Between the Sexes in a play that premiered at the prestigious Key West Theatre Festival in Florida. In ten hilarious sketches, including "Vegetarians in Lust," "At the Orgy," and "Spaghetti Overture," the "awesomely talented Orloff has given us a duel consisting of barbed words in a wildly funny spoof examining the widely divergent expectations – sexual, emotional and otherwise – between the genders..."

— Ft. Myers Islander.

"Orloff blithely mixes comedy with fantasy throughout the collection... the most audience-friendly attraction of this year's festival..." — South Florida Sun-Sentinel.
